About the Cleveland Clinic 26th Annual Jagelman / 36th Annual Turnbull International Colorectal Disease Symposium

The Cleveland Clinic Digestive Disease Institute will once again host the Annual Jagelman/Turnbull Colorectal Disease Symposium in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. This year's symposium offers a rewarding educational opportunity with approximately 650 registrants from over 64 countries.

The program is designed to provide a comprehensive, in-depth, detailed overview of new, controversial, challenging, and provocative colorectal themes. A live surgery day, an Advanced Transanal Surgery Workshop & Wet Lab, and a day of scientific paper/poster presentations will be offered as additional educational opportunities. The meeting will occur over six comprehensive days, four of which will include 16 scientific sessions, including over 115 podium presentations and 8 hours of interactive panel discussions with challenging questions and informative answers.

In addition, formal exchange amongst the faculty and registrants will be encouraged during breakfast, lunch, and breaks. The topics were selected from surveys conducted during the last several years' symposia as well as through a variety of expert opinions, literature review, and physician competencies. Therefore, the program is designed to include a mixture of techniques and technologies. Attendance at the symposium will provide the registrants with a detailed analysis of the current status of virtually every major colorectal area. Video demonstrations will help improve competencies and patient outcomes. Both expected and adverse outcomes as well as the recognition and management of such outcomes will be emphasized. Numerous lectures and, in fact, one entire panel, will be centered upon the definitions and optimization of patient outcomes. Interdisciplinary integration amongst surgery, gastroenterology, and pathology will be emphasized.

AT THE CONCLUSION OF THIS EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITY PARTICIPANTS SHOULD BE ABLE TO:

- Integrate patient reported outcomes into clinical care and improve patient safety using reported data
- Apply techniques in surgical practice that help to avoid or minimize postsurgical complications
- Evaluate the changing paradigm in the surgical management of diverticulitis
- Compare the functional outcomes in patients undergoing pelvic surgery and discuss options for treatment
- Distinguish which patients with rectal cancer benefit from neoadjuvant chemoradiation and the role of local excision
- Analyze the outcomes of restorative proctocolectomy with ileal pouch and discuss the management of postoperative complications
- Explain the molecular pathogenesis of polyposis syndromes, biologic and molecular markers for staging colon carcinoma, and how these factors influence the care of patients with colorectal cancer
- Diagnose and select appropriate treatment options for patient with fecal incontinence
- Identify patients who would benefit from a transanal endoscopic microsurgical approach or natural orifice surgery

TOPICS

- Minimally Invasive Surgery
- Robotics
- Surgical Innovation
