WELCOME TO BARCELONA

Barcelona is the capital of Catalonia as well as a city with an essentially Mediterranean culture and history. You can find it on the map, discover its geography and neighbourhoods and find out everything about it in detail, from its Roman origins to its centuries-old traditions.

The origins of Barcelona date back to the first century BC, when the Romans established a small colony around Mont Tàber (Taber Hill) called Barcino. The remains of two Roman walls bear witness to this time.

Language

Catalan, the official language of Catalonia, is spoken in Barcelona, as is Spanish, the official language of Spain.

Culture and lifestyle

Barcelona is bubbling all year round. Alternative art galleries, urban sport, festivals, fairs, exhibitions and more fill the calendar with ideas that bring us closer to a culture always hanging on to the latest trends, not just personal but also urban, artistic and even food. Yet Barcelona people have fixed habits and therefore they like to look after and promote their history, preserving buildings and streets, while maintaining their traditions throughout the year. Celebrations like the Festa de la Mercè, literally the "Festival of Our Lady of Mercy", the city's patron saint, is a very good example of this. It is also important to mention the folk festivals in each of the city neighbourhoods, notably those in Sants and Gràcia, where every year they follow the same traditions, with giants, human towers and folk music.

Barcelona faces the sea and, as a result, became a large gateway for knowledge, traditions, customs, new consumer products to pass into the country, and have passed, in short, providing an inexhaustible source of wealth, not only from Europe but also all the lands that form the Mediterranean and beyond. Although culturally Barcelonians have fed themselves through this always open window, they are people of habit, with fixed times and hours, as well as a family character. We can therefore assert that their cultural growth has always rested on a formula that is very much their own and difficult to copy: an interesting mix of local traditions and others that have come from outside.

WELCOME ADDRESS

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

We would like to invite you to the 9th Congress of the Vascular Access Society which will take place on April 15-18, 2015 in the cosmopolitan city of Barcelona, Catalonia, Spain.

The Vascular Access Society is a multidisciplinary Society where nephrologists, surgeons, interventional radiologists, dialysis nurses and vascular and radiological technologists are involved. The main objective of the Society is focused on scientific developments in vascular access for hemodialysis. Undoubtedly, the vascular access is the lifeline for many patients with acute renal failure or end-stage renal disease because their only option to move forward is to have good access to the blood stream in order to perform hemodialysis.

Our aim is that all participants feel welcome in this Congress. We have tried to put together an attractive scientific program and we would like to achieve an active participation engaging all attendees during the meeting. We will try to make the congress interactive by using technology to help the audience exchange knowledge in a more agile way. Therefore, we will organize, for example, real-time polling of the audience and Question-and-Answer Sessions to show the different points of view of the attendees. We are also planning hands-on workshops with simulation models and patients. We are also scheduling a number of lunch-Symposiums sponsored by Industry. And of course, we have not forgotten the important scientific contribution of free communications and posters.

And finally, Barcelona city.... What can we say about the city of Barcelona ? Barcelona is a Mediterranean capital that is unquestionably attractive in many ways: for its culture, leisure and entertainment, shopping, gastronomy and an exceptional climate. Barcelona ranked fourth in the number of international tourists in 2012, representing an increase of 48.7% over 2005. It's the only city in the world with nine buildings which are UNESCO World Heritage sites. Barcelona is also the world's third most popular congress city, according to the International Congress & Convention Association (ICCA).

The congress will take place at the Palau Congressos Barcelona (FIRA Montjuic) which is very close to the Palau of Montjuic and Plaça d'Espanya. The Congress venue is very well connected to the rest of the city by public transport and only a few minutes from the "heart" of Barcelona: "Plaça de Catalunya"

We want to make this Congress a true festival of vascular access. Something you will enjoy!

Welcome to Barcelona!
