This conference is designed to update delegates on:

The aetiology, mechanism and structural changes in the brain in mild traumatic brain injury (mild TBI).

The effect of mild TBI on the functioning of the brain and mind.

The complex overlap with psychological trauma e.g. PTSD/psychiatric trauma and depression/anxiety, experienced by individuals with mild TBI

How to quantify the neurological, psychiatric and psychological sequelae of Mild TBI by measuring the microscopic disruption of functional brain networks.

The medicolegal and personal implications of early accurate diagnosis of mild TBI.

New and advanced neuro imaging techniques and related technologies to monitor and quantify objective evidence of brain injury and response to treatment.

DRAFT PROGRAMME

08:45 - 09:30 Registration

09:30 - 09:35 Introduction

09:35 - 09:55 From the Big Picture to the Mind Field in 24 months - Neuro imaging and diagnostics 2017

The introductory presentation provide a brief overview of advances in multi modality structural and functional brain imaging to diagnose and quantify mild TBI. Progress them from Re:Cognition Health's 2015 Conference "The Big Picture" to "Navigating the mind-field" in 2017 is reviewed in the context of unprecedented medical progress in understanding mild Traumatic Brain injury.

Dr Emer MacSweeney, Consultant Neuroradiologist, Re:CognitionHealth

09:55 - 10:45 The Pathophysiology of mild TBI: insights from animal models

The presentation will provide the latest insights into the pathophysiological mechanisms that underpin neuronal injury following TBI.

Professor William Stuart, Consultant Neuropathologist, University of Glasgow

10:45 - 11:10 Tea/Coffee, Networking and Exhibition Stands

11:10 - 12:00 Assessing Neurological Symptoms following mild TBI

The presentation will provide details of how the evolving pathophysiology of mild TBI produces clinical neurological symptoms from the moment of injury through the acute, sub- acute and chronic phase.

Dr Steven Alder, Consultant Neurologist, Re:Cognition Health

NAVIGATING H MINDFIELD

MILD TRAUMATIC
BRAIN INJURY

12:00 - 12:30 Part I Presentation Title: Assessing, understanding and quantifying PTSD and Depression in mild TBI

Presentations Summary:

Dr Dilley will present two presentations one before lunch and one this afternoon which will provide an update on neuropsychiatrist assessment and qualitative and quantitative evaluation of the psychiatric components of brain injury, with reference to the very latest peer reviewed evidence regarding aetiology and measurement of microscopic structural brain injury.

Dr Mike Dilley, Consultant Neuro-psychiatrist

12:30 - 13:30 Lunch, Networking and Exhibition Stands

13:30 - 14:30 Using Quantitative EEG as a Diagnostic and Treatment Tool in patients with mild TBI

The presentation will include details of the research findings from the application of a specific type of quantitative EEG; firstly, as a diagnostic tool and secondly in order to guide cognitive treatment for patients with mild TBI.

Kirtley Thornton, Consultant Neuropsychologist and Neurophysiologist, Institute of Neurotherapy, North Carolina

14:30 - 14:55 Tea/Coffee, Networking and Exhibition Stands

14:55 - 15:40 Fit for purpose neuropsychological assessment and treatment of mild TBI in 2017

The design and delivery of the neuropsychology assessment needs to evolve, significantly, in the context of new and much greater understanding of the mechanisms for the development of subtle cognitive and behavioural symptoms.

Dr Priyanka Pradha, Consultant Neuropsychologist RCH

15:40 - 16:10 Part II Presentation Title: Exploring functional cognitive syndromes in mild TBI.

Dr Dilley will present the second part to his presentation followed on from the morning.

Dr Mike Dilley, Consultant Neuro-psychiatrist

16:10 - 16:15 Close
