

Sleep DownUnder 2022

There's some excitement in the air as we think about the prospect of finally being able to meet again in person for Sleep DownUnder 2022!

Of course, there remain many uncertainties that we are planning for just in case, but we're hopeful that we will finally be able to gather as the ASA community once again for the first time since 2019. We're putting special efforts into our preparations to make it a conference to remember for those who are able to join us in Brisbane. We'll have two amazing international keynote speakers in Michael Perlis and Jean-Louis Pepin, along with the latest research and insights from across the sleep spectrum. We're paying particular attention to making the meeting as COVID-safe as possible.

For any members who can't make it in person, the lower-cost virtual registration gives you a chance to participate live with most conference sessions. These sessions will also be available on the ASA Learning Centre afterwards for those who weren't able to participate live.

Block out your diaries and keep an eye on your emails for all the news about our big annual get together. I can't wait to see you!
