Providence Swedish's Eighth Annual LGBTQIA2S+ Health Symposium provides an opportunity for clinicians to gain additional knowledge and skills in providing care for our LGBTQIA+ communities through evidence-informed discussions on a variety of topics. In collaboration with a variety of experts, attendees will leave each conference with the tools to expand healthcare access to serve our LGBTQIA+ patients.

Planned in partnership with providers from the Seattle region, will focus on the following topics:

- Primary care for LGBTQIA+ and queer women
- Queering menopause
- The intersection of age and LGBTQIA+ identity
- Behavioral and mental health considerations in the LGBTQIA+ community
- Preparing and supporting patients seeking gender-affirming surgeries
- The impacts of an administration change on LGBTQIA+ families
- The impacts of an administration change in LGBTQIA+ healthcare access in WA and in the United States

This symposium is open to all healthcare clinicians and professionals including students in health profession schools who work with our LGBTQIA+ communities.

Intended Audience

The course content is intended for all healthcare professionals including physicians, ARNPs, PAs nurses, allied health professionals, administrative leaders, patient health advocates, medical students, and residents/fellows who encounter LGBTQIA2S+ patients in their practice. It is especially recommended for those who provide primary care, internal medicine, pediatrics, geriatrics, and obstetrics and gynecology.

Learning Objectives

By attending this course, participants will provide better patient care through an increased ability to:

- Provide preventive and primary care services to LGBTQIA+ and queer women
- Support queer women and patients on testosterone therapy experiencing menopause and/or menopausal symptoms
- Discuss the impact on administrative changes on LGBTQIA+ families and LGBTQIA+ healthcare access
- Recognize the intersection of LGBTQIA+ identity with age and behavioral/mental health concerns
- Provide support and care for patients pursuing gender-affirming surgeries
