Synopsis

Top Trends in Periodontology and Oral Health

The course will include the top 10 trends in periodontology, guidelines on how to choose oral health care products and getting patients to own their oral health and patient behavior.

Topics to be covered:

- The "REAL" evidence about oral-systemic disease.
- Current evidence regarding best practices for assessing risk for periodontal disease.
- Evidence based therapies to use for nonsurgical periodontal therapy.
- Latest instruments and equipment available for nonsurgical care of patients.
- Laser therapies and other technologies for periodontal care of patients.
- Evidence regarding antibiotics and antimicrobials for the treatment of periodontal disease including systemic, topical (mouthrinses, pastes) and controlled-release products.
- Problems associated with dental implants.
- Use of antioxidants, probiotics and other new therapies for improved oral health.
- Motivational strategies to use with patients to achieve better compliance/adherence.
- Behavioral styles exhibited by most patients and co-workers.
- Communication strategies to use with patients and team members to provide better care to all patients.
- Procedures to evaluate evidence of claims.
- Commonly used products in dental hygiene practice and what to recommend to patients.
- Evidence based resource websites for patient and product information.

Rebecca S. Wilder, BSDH, MS

Ms. Wilder is a Professor and Director of Faculty Development at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill School of Dentistry. She also serves as Director of the Master of Science Degree Program in Dental Hygiene Education. She is currently the Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Dental Hygiene, the American Dental Hygienists Association. Rebecca has published over 100 articles and abstracts in professional journals and speaks internationally in the areas of nonsurgical periodontal therapy and products, oral-systemic health, risk and dental practice management and communication strategies for increasing patient adherence to oral health.

All speakers must disclose to the audience any proprietary, financial or other personal interest of any nature or kind, in any product, service, source and/or company, or in any firm beneficially associated therewith that will be discussed or considered during their presentation. The Herman Ostrow School of Dentistry of USC does not view the existence of these interests or uses as implying bias or decreasing the value to participants. The Herman Ostrow School of Dentistry of USC, along with ADA CERP, feels that this disclosure is important for the participants to form their own judgment about each presentation.
