WELCOME from the Program Chair

During any given week, I more than once find myself informing patients, colleagues, or interested parties that I would have been better served by studying art during my college years than I was by majoring in biology. This dialog customarily arises from the fascination so many express when they learn of the complexities of generating oral prostheses and includes descriptions of the fact that the production of dental prostheses traditionally involves the recording of impressions, sculpting, mold making, casting, and coloration. However, when patients are confused by the fact that they have been referred to a dental specialist for the fabrication of facial prostheses, the conversations invariably involve an explanation of the fact that the skill set and materials used to produce extraoral prostheses are remarkably similar to or identical to those used to construct oral prostheses.

Understanding this, those involved in the clinical practice of maxillofacial prosthetics or anaplastology are inextricably influenced by the traditions of art without regard for the formal academic tack that brought them to their various stations. While their practices might not be so steeped with the production of tangible products akin to prostheses, I believe surgeons, speech pathologists, medical oncologists, and oral medicine specialists are too influenced by these traditions.

With that said, this year's scientific session leads off with a world class portrait artist's description of his work with a cohort of patients with facial differences and the affect his work had on their psychologic wellbeing. Dr. Mark Gilbert's keynote address will be followed by the testimonial of Dr. James Van Arsdall, one of his University of Nebraska Medical Center patients, and Dr. Betsy Davis' description of her ongoing study of painting vis-à-vis her practice of maxillofacial prosthetics in a tertiary care setting. While the topical direction of the conference will thereafter turn toward more traditional scientific matters, I have asked each speaker to allude to how they believe art informs them in their professional or personal lives.

It is thus my sincere hope that you will enjoy the slate of speakers, corporate supporters, workshops, cuisine, entertainment, and camaraderie that the annual AAMP meetings customarily offer in the comfort and hospitality San Diego so capably affords.

Jeffery C. Markt, D.D.S.
2016 AAMP Program Chairperson

SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA

Often referred to as "America's Finest City" and for good reason! Known for its great hotels and accommodations, beautiful weather, pristine beaches, friendly people and a plethora of entertainment, San Diego is a favorite travel destination for visitors across the globe.

San Diego is an ideal city for a retreat that has a huge variety of popular attractions. Enjoyable destinations like the Gaslamp Quarter, Old Town, Balboa Park and Seaport Village have great shopping, sightseeing and fine dining opportunities. The diverse variety of museums in the area range from the San Diego Museum of Art to the USS Midway Museum and provide the chance to learn more about the history of San Diego and the surrounding region.

For individuals ready to get out and explore the wonders of the world you can't beat a visit to the San Diego Zoo, SeaWorld or the San Diego Zoo Safari Park. If you are looking for a good way to experience the outdoors on your trip, consider trying a boat or kayak tour and explore the California coastline!

No matter what kind of experience you are looking for, the city of San Diego has something for everyone. A perfect blend of nature, city, suburbia and tourism make San Diego a desired travel destination worldwide and a great source of pride for its local residents.

CONFERENCE TOPICS

- Surgical Reconstruction
- Maxillofacial Prosthetics
- Facial Prosthetics
- Implant Care
- Rehabilitation Medicine
- Chemotherapy & Radiation Therapy
- Digital Technology
- Functional Outcomes
- Nanotechnology & Biomaterials
- Psychosocial Considerations
- Tissue Engineering & Regenerative Medicine
- Supportive Care

OVERVIEW

The 63rd annual meeting of the AAMP will be held at the US Grant Hotel in San Diego, California (October 1-4, 2016). The focus of this national session will include topics on cutting-edge technology in head and neck cancer treatment, maxillofacial rehabilitation, management of oral morbidities, and evidence-based supportive care.

The scientific program provides lectures from expert pioneers in their respective fields, poster presentations, workshops and continuing education courses advancing mainstream concepts and new developments in head and neck oncology, craniofacial reconstruction and maxillofacial rehabilitation. Leaders will come together, with experts in maxillofacial prosthetics and prosthodontics, oral and maxillofacial surgery, radiation oncology, medical oncology, speech and swallowing research and supportive care.

CALL FOR PAPERS

We encourage all colleagues to submit an abstract for consideration for poster presentations. Any registered conference delegate can submit a poster for presentation. Abstract papers must be submitted on the AAMP website—please visit the Call for Papers tab. Instructions for oral and poster presentations are posted on the AAMP website. Please keep your abstracts to 350 words or less. All selected abstracts will be published in our Conference Program Book. Papers will be published as presented by author. Proof read and edit your paper.

Please note that Poster Competition and Publication Grants are restricted to AAMP Student Members. Colleagues who are not AAMP Student Members will not be able to select the option for Poster Competition.

We invite all who qualify to apply as an AAMP Student Member first and then submit your abstract with the opportunity to present your poster for Poster Competition and/or Publication Grant.

All posters relating to conference topics will be accepted.

2016 WORKSHOPS

Workshop 1

Advanced Jaw Reconstruction

iRSM & The University of Alberta

*Presented By: Martin Osswald, BDS, MDent &
Hadi Seikaly, MD, FRCSC*

Time Offered: Monday, October 3 (14:30-16:45)

Course Objectives: The utilization of micro vascular free flap grafts changed maxillofacial prosthodontic practice in the rehabilitation of jaw defects. Free flap surgery in the rehabilitation of head and neck cancer patients in Edmonton has become the mainstay surgical approach in restoring head and neck defects following resection of tumors.

This almost exclusively surgical approach to treatment has resulted in a paradigm shift in the practice and services offered by Maxillofacial Prosthodontists at the Institute for Reconstructive Sciences in Medicine (iRSM) and the University of Alberta in Edmonton. Combined with free flap surgeries is the utilization of advanced digital technologies and the development of prefabricated osseous flaps for implant rehabilitation. Maxillofacial prosthodontists' roles, expertise and tools have changed in response to these developments and they need to collaborate and work closely with their surgeons, technicians and new disciplines such as Surgical Design Simulation, as the treatment trajectory for our patients has evolved and changed.

The workshop aims to demonstrate these processes, describing the surgical simulation and reconstruction techniques for the maxilla and mandible utilized by the reconstruction team at iRSM and the University of Alberta in Edmonton.

Limited Availability! Register today to reserve your seat.

Price: $125.00 USD / person ($175.00 after September 15th)

Workshop 2

The Art & the Science of Silicone

Factor II, Incorporated

Presented By: John McFall

Time Offered: Tuesday, October 4 (14:30-16:45)

Course Objectives: The purpose of this workshop is to identify the choice of silicones; the Maxillofacial community is a limited market, what materials are available. The ideal approach on choosing the best silicone is to know what to use and why! The ability to create a quality facial prosthesis is a combination of art (artistic talent) as well as the Science (knowledge) of the silicone, and mold making skills.

What silicone choice and variations will be demonstrated and the participants will have the ability to work with a multitude of silicones. Participants will be exposed to a variety of Platinum (addition) cure silicone elastomers from Shore 05 A to Shore 80 A.

Limited Availability! Register today to reserve your seat.

Price: $125.00 USD / person ($175.00 after September 15th)

ADA C.E.R.P.[®] | Continuing Education
Recognition Program

The American Academy of Maxillofacial Prosthetics (AAMP) is an ADA CERP recognized provider. The ADA CERP is a service of the American Dental Association to assist dental professionals in identifying quality providers of continuing dental education. ADA CERP does not approve or endorse individual courses or instructors, nor does it imply acceptance of credit hours by boards of dentistry. Concerns or complaints about a CE provider may be directed to the provider or to the Commission for Continuing Education Provider Recognition at ADA.org/CERP.

Attendees are cautioned regarding the risks of using limited knowledge when incorporating into their practices techniques and procedures illustrated, discussed, or demonstrated during any American Academy of Maxillofacial Prosthetics conferences.

46TH ANNUAL SESSION
OCT 5-8 • SAN DIEGO

PROSTHODONTICS:

THE INTERSECTION OF ART & TECHNOLOGY

Arthur C. Clarke said that any sufficiently advanced technology is indistinguishable from magic. Some might say we have reached that point in dentistry. Technology is revealing new ways to do things we have been doing for years, and it is changing what is possible in health, function, and beauty.

Without advanced training, this level of patient care might appear to be magic. But as prosthodontists, it's our specialty.

Led by Program Chair Dr. John R. Agar and President Dr. Carl F. Driscoll, this meeting is designed to help you stay competitive and prepared for the treatments of tomorrow. And the week is full of events where you can share notes and enjoy the company of friends and colleagues.

Please visit the website for additional details:
