Built to Thrive: Connecting Business Insights Into Action

Managing a practice that has the ability to thrive insists that you be an informed business manager with eyes open on today's marketplace/consumer/competition. With the demands of day-to-day operations, it's easy to neglect the business of information – and when you don't have the information you need, you are operating without visibility to what's truly happening. Understand the power of a process driven, patient-centric practice as we explore essential strategies and measurement methods that drive performance, growth and profitability.
