Personal Care Attendants and Assistants in Nursing Workshop - Melbourne 2018

2 Day Workshop for PCA's, AIN's and other Carers Working in Residential and Community Aged Care

Need for Program

Personal care attendants (PCAs) / Assistants in Nursing (AINs) and other similar employees now represent the majority of the residential and community aged care workforce. As there are now few registered and enrolled nurses working in aged care, the vast scope of the work of PCAs and AINs is increasing. This demands a greater emphasis on ongoing training and education. There is a timely need to offer formal ongoing education to PCAs/AINs so as they are best placed to meet the comprehensive care needs of this vulnerable population and reduce harm.

Purpose of Program

The purpose of this workshop is to provide PCA's /AIN's and similar level staff working in a residential aged care or community settings, an opportunity to improve their knowledge and skills relating to the comprehensive care of older adults.

Learning Outcomes

At the conclusion of this program it is expected that the participants will be able to:

- Older adults who have chronic cognitive impairment will be provided care that reduces their likelihood of falling
- A person who becomes acutely confused will be recognised because you will know how the symptoms of delirium differ from those of dementia
- Pressure injuries in older at-risk adults will be decreased as a result of improved knowledge of the reasons why skin breaks down
- You will be more confident and assertive when engaging in conversation with general practitioners, other staff and relatives
