The Biology and Physics of Bacterial Chromosome Organisation 2018

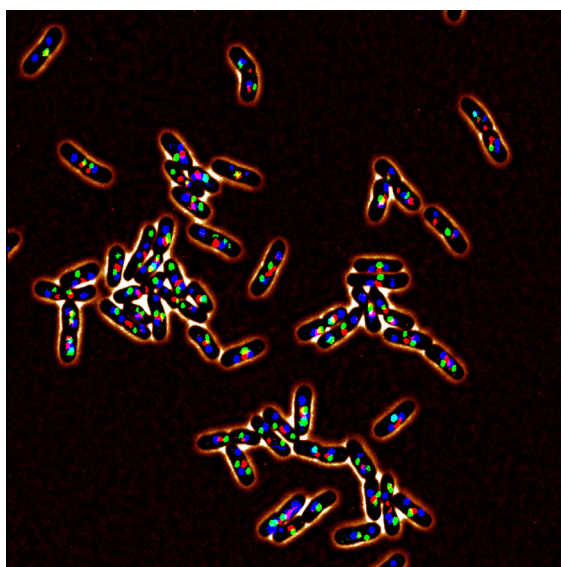

4-6 June, 2018

Golden Tulip, Leiden, The Netherlands

In recent years, collaborations between biologists and physicists have generated key discoveries regarding our understanding of bacterial chromosome structure. This conference will recognize the role of inter-disciplinary work and foster new collaborations and ideas.

Speakers include:

- Ankur Dalia, Indiana University
- Christine Jacobs-Wagner, Yale University
- Frédéric Boccard, I2BC
- Georg Fantner, EPFL
- Karin Schnetz, University of Cologne
- Marc Heilemann, University of Frankfurt
- Meriem El Karoui, University of Edinburgh
- Ninke Dekker, Technical University of Delft
- Sankar Adhya, Center for Cancer Research
