Welcome to the 23rd Annual Congress of the European College of Sport Science

Dear colleagues,

On behalf of University College Dublin and Ulster University, we would like to extend a warm welcome to join us at the 23rd Annual Congress of the ECSS in Dublin, Ireland, from the 4th - 7th July, 2018. The conference will take place right in the heart of the city at the newly built and inspirational Convention Centre overlooking the River Liffey, surrounded by all the amenities this dynamic city has to offer. We are confident that you will find the multidisciplinary academic programme, delivered by some of the leading exponents and thinkers in our field, invigorating and enjoyable, arising as it does from the combined expertise of University College Dublin (Centre for Sports Studies; Institute for Sport and Health) and Ulster University School of Sport. Our congress theme is "Sport Science at the Cutting Edge" and we aim to provide every opportunity for delegates to learn from, and contribute to the latest developments in Sports and Exercise science in a stimulating social and professional setting.

We look forward to seeing you there!

Prof. Marie Murphy PhD, FACS, FBASES
(Ulster University School of Sports)

Prof. Colin Boreham PhD, FECCS, FACS
(Director, Institute for Sport and Health, UCD)

Prof. Giuseppe De Vito MD, PhD, FECCS, FFSEM
