10th International Congress

Myeloproliferative Neoplasms and Chronic Myeloid Leukemia: Diagnosis, Management and New Clinical Developments

November 2-3, 2017 - New York, NY

Letter from the Chairmen

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

It gives us great pleasure to announce the 10th International Congress on MPNs & CML: Diagnosis, Management and New Clinical Developments, to be held on November 2-3, 2017 at the InterContinental New York Times Square in New York, New York.

Held biennially in the U.S. since 2001, this conference has become the premier forum for discussion on the latest advances in myeloproliferative neoplasms. The focus this year will be on the most recent updates and debates centered around the diagnosis and management of essential thrombocythemia (ET), polycythemia vera (PV), myelofibrosis (MF), chronic myelogenous leukemia (CML), and other related topics.

The program features a world class faculty and highly interactive sessions designed to engage participants and provide a state-of-the-art learning experience. At least 200 hematologists/oncologists and other healthcare professionals are expected to attend the two-day event, where they will have the opportunity to participate in a variety of educational formats including didactic sessions, patient case presentations and poster presentations, as well as multiple networking and one-on-one discussion opportunities with the faculty.

We look forward to welcoming you to New York in November for this not-to-be-missed event!

With warmest regards,

MSSNY is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The Medical Society of the State of New York designates this live activity for a maximum of 11.25 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Target Audience

The 10th International Congress on MPNs and CML is specifically designed for hematologists, medical oncologists, and other healthcare professionals (physicians, clinicians, physicians-in-training, oncology nurses, pharmacists, physician assistants, etc.) involved and/or interested in the therapeutic management of patients with MPNs and CML.

Educational Objectives

After participating in this program, participants should be able to:

- Describe underlying molecular and genetic events involved in myeloproliferative neoplasms and how these events could be utilized within the clinic.
- Evaluate the role of current therapies for the treatment of myelofibrosis, essential thrombocythemia and polycythemia vera.
- Assess how emerging data on treatment strategies for myeloproliferative neoplasms might affect current practice standards and how they might be appropriately incorporated into clinical practice to improve patient care.
- Describe the current treatment options and cost issues associated with routine care for CML patients.

Call for Abstracts

The 10th International Congress on MPNs & CML organizing committee encourages participants to submit an abstract for publication in the Program Book and for Poster Presentation during the event. The committee seeks original papers that address basic or clinical issues specifically related to the diagnosis or management of patients with myeloproliferative neoplasms or chronic myeloid leukemia.

Best three abstracts (as determined by the Scientific Committee) will receive travel grants, as well as the opportunity to give oral presentations during the congress.
