Improving outcomes for people living with & beyond cancer

Tuesday 14 June 2016 Hallam Conference Centre, London

Living with and Beyond Cancer is one of the key strategic priorities for the National Cancer Taskforce. In a letter to Chief Executives of the bodies that run the NHS Prof Harpal Kumar, Independent Chair of the National Cancer Taskforce stated that “Many cancer patients suffer long-term consequences from their cancer or their treatment and are at higher risk of recurrence. Many will suffer psychological or financial hardship. Most will have another long-term condition they are trying to manage in addition to their cancer. These consequences adversely affect long-term quality of life, and can also result in acute episodes of health care need, much of which is avoidable or can be mitigated. I have been struck by how many areas of the country are testing initiatives to support better this growing cohort and delivering some truly exciting results, which we need to start taking forward at a national level. The highest priority should be to accelerate the roll-out of stratified follow up pathways and the commissioning of holistic packages of support. The aim should be that by 2020 every person with cancer will have access to relevant elements of the Recovery Package and that stratified follow-up pathways should be in place for the common cancers. We also need to develop a national quality of life metric – ideally by 2017 – to ensure that we monitor and learn lessons to support people better in living well after treatment has ended. We should also ensure that end of life care planning and choices are made available to all who have a terminal diagnosis, without delay.”

The National Cancer Taskforce have recently announced their intention to “Transform our approach to support people living with and beyond cancer: We recommend accelerating the roll-out of stratified follow up pathways and the “Recovery Package”. The aim should be that by 2020 every person with cancer will have access to elements of the Recovery Package, and stratified pathways of follow-up care will be in place for the common cancers. A national quality of life measure should be developed by 2017 to ensure that we monitor and learn lessons to support people better in living well after treatment has ended.” ACHIEVING WORLD-CLASS CANCER OUTCOMES A STRATEGY FOR ENGLAND 2015-2020, The National Cancer Taskforce 2015

This conference focuses on cancer survivorship, improving outcomes for people living with and beyond cancer, moving from surviving to thriving. Through national updates and practical case studies the conference aims to support you to develop effective cancer survivorship support and services. There will be an extended focus on meeting the unmet needs of people living with and beyond cancer, accelerating the roll-out of stratified follow up pathways and the commissioning of holistic packages of support, ensuring every person with cancer will have access to relevant elements of the Recovery Package and that stratified follow-up pathways should be in place for the common cancers, and the development of a national quality of life metric to ensure that we monitor and learn lessons to support people better in living well after treatment has ended.
