DYNAMIC PRACTICE

Diversification and the challenges ahead

Chairs' welcome

We would like to welcome our delegates to an exciting scientific programme that has been developed with the progression of podiatric surgery in mind. Leading podiatric surgeons from UK and USA will be providing experienced insights into topics chosen for the purpose of developing practice in the future and beyond.

Podiatric surgeons of the future will increasingly have to surgically manage the high risk diabetic foot and provide leadership in the multidisciplinary team. The profession and the industry supporting podiatric surgery is also developing at a pace never seen before. New equipment and techniques have allowed surgeons to develop skills that inevitably improve patient experience and outcomes.

You will also find an experienced faculty running the popular cadaver course which has become a highlight of the conference. Podiatric surgeons will be able to hone in their skills on complex procedures and learn from the experience of the faculty and colleagues.

The conference venue will also allow you to network and spend time with your colleagues as well as visit sponsors at their exhibit stands. The formal dinner will be held on Friday night where you can relax and let your hair down.

Kaser Nazir, Conference Co-Chair and Consultant Podiatric Surgeon, Guy's and St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust

Ryan McCallum, Conference Co-Chair and Consultant Podiatric Surgeon, Homerton University Hospital and West Middlesex University Hospital

Why should I attend?

- Learn first-hand from leading experts in podiatric surgery
- Exclusive opportunity to attend a pre-conference cadaver workshops
- Obtain valuable CPD points and enhance your CPD portfolio
- Attend hands-on workshops to learn new skills and techniques
- Excellent networking opportunities
- Visit the trade exhibition to learn about the latest in surgical products, equipment and services

Who should attend?

The conference programme will offer something of interest to anyone working within, or with an interest in podiatric surgery including podiatric surgeons, registrars and trainees from the NHS and private practice.

Cadaver workshops stryker

On Thursday 16 March, two half day Cadaver workshops will be held at University Hospital Coventry and are kindly supported by Stryker.

In the morning there will be a Ankle-Hindfoot and Midfoot workshop for consultants and in the afternoon a workshop for trainees.

Please note that each workshop has limited numbers so early booking is advised. Delegates can only attend the workshops if registered for the conference. Additional fees apply.
