The American College of Osteopathic Family Physicians (ACOFP) is accredited by the American Osteopathic Association to provide osteopathic continuing medical education for physicians.

The ACOFP designates this program for a maximum of 18 AOA Category 1-A credits and will report continuing medical education (CME) credits commensurate with the physician's participation in this program.

ACTIVITY DESCRIPTION AND OVERALL LEARNING OBJECTIVES

The 2025 Winter Summit is designed to provide attendees the opportunity to update their medical knowledge and enhance clinical skills through a dynamic curriculum that will allow learners to integrate new and updated guidelines, practices, therapies, and tools into daily practice. The goal of this CME activity is to help attendees develop and implement strategies that will improve patient care delivery and health outcomes.

Overall Learning Objectives

By the end of the educational activity, participants will be able to:

- Integrate evidence-based guidelines into clinical practice through application of best practices in the diagnosis and management of acute and chronic conditions encountered in family medicine
- Enhance clinical decision making and patient-centered care by utilizing diagnostic tools and implementing preventive care strategies to optimize patient engagement and health outcomes
- Strengthen management of various medical conditions by developing approaches for evaluating and treating common and complex conditions in both inpatient and outpatient settings
- Stay current with medical knowledge, emerging trends, and office-based procedures to enhance patient care and improve procedural confidence and patient safety

CLAIMING AND REPORTING CME CREDITS

Important Notice to All Attendees: If you would like your CME credits reported to AAFP and CE Broker before the end of 2025, please be sure to submit your evaluation and credit claim no later than Friday, December 19, 2025.
