What is COSM?

The Combined Otolaryngology Spring Meetings is comprised of nine societies that join together once a year to share, exchange, and discuss the latest research, advances, and hot topics in the field of otolaryngology. This meeting provides an opportunity to compare varying experiences within several interesting and important areas of otolaryngology. It also provides the opportunity to view over 700 poster presentations and discuss the research with the authors. In addition, more than 90 companies exhibit at COSM to display the latest technology and products and to discuss recent trends within the field. You don't want to miss this great educational opportunity to attend a meeting that fosters communication among otolaryngology-related subspecialties and is a forum to exchange a wide range of ideas. For more information regarding the scientific programs and educational offerings at COSM, visit www.cosm.md.
