Difficult Airway Management Workshop

Thursday, March 14, 2013

SOAP is offering the Difficult Airway Management Workshop the day before the full SOAP 2013 Sol Shnider, M.D. Obstetric Anesthesia Meeting begins; meeting attendees are encouraged to register for this event early as it sold out quickly last year.

Activity Director:

Patricia Roth, M.D.

Activity Co-Director:

Matthew Haight, M.D.

Instructors:

Pedram Aleshi, M.D.;

Rachel Eshima McKay, M.D.;

Monica Harbell, M.D.; Rondall Lane, M.D.;

Jennifer Lucero, M.D.; Mark Rollins, M.D.;

John Turnbull, M.D.; Art Wallace, M.D.

DESCRIPTION

This Advanced Hands-On Airway Workshop is designed to update practitioners on the latest data, equipment, and techniques. It will begin with a series of talks and demonstrations that detail various situations in which an airway cannot be established through conventional means, including a discussion of appropriate methods and tools that can be used in difficult airway management. This will be immediately followed by a hands-on training workshop where participants will practice these techniques using a variety of airway management equipment on mannequins to further sharpen and refresh their skills. Lunch is included.

Plan on arriving early to attend the Difficult Airway Management Workshop on Thursday, March 14, 2013.

STATEMENT OF NEED

The planning committee reviewed comments from previous workshop participants, which indicate the value of the workshop. The committee also reviewed recent regional and national scientific and educational meeting content, and pediatric anesthesia published medical literature, to determine the need for increased education and hands-on training in the pediatric difficult airway.

Sources demonstrating the need for improved performance in the management of the difficult airway (DA) is the American Society of Anesthesiologists (ASA), Obstetric Anesthesia Closed Claims Project database, a standardized collection of case summaries derived from professional liability insurance companies closed claims files and the UK National Audit Project. The analyzed data published in summary articles, provide a unique tool not only for reducing malpractice liability exposure for the anesthesia practitioner, but also for improving patient safety and health outcomes. Emerging data also shows adverse outcomes following extubation of difficult airways, which is another area of focus for future improvement in patient safety.

Recent publications highlight the advantages of new alternative devices such as video-laryngoscopes and LMA bridging techniques that have enhanced airway management in routine and difficult airways.

Given the significant potential adverse outcomes from airway catastrophes, this workshop will provide difficult airway management training, as well as provide a refresher course for the anesthesia practitioner. Experts in airway management will be presenting practical updates in small interactive groups regarding use of proven and new airway devices in the management of difficult and failed airway.

EDUCATIONAL METHODS AND OBJECTIVES

Through the use of lectures, demonstrations, hands-on workshop sessions, and on-site hand-outs, participants should be able to:

- Integrate the use of various educational tools, simulators, and methodology into the practice of advanced airway management.
- Maintain competency in the use of advanced airway management skills.
- Improve patient airway-related safety outcomes.
