MANAGER OF RISK & CLAIMS, OB HOSPITALIST GROUP

Extremely high caliber of information, expertise and especially hearing from physicians who offer practical insight and experiences.

PARTNER – CHAIR HEALTH CARE GROUP, TUCKER ELLIS LLP

Obstetrics malpractice claims continue to be the most expensive within the medical malpractice arena.

In 2019, there were several multi-million-dollar verdicts alone.

As medical science in the field of obstetrics continues to make innovative discoveries, develop rapidly changing advances in medical technology, and provide increased access to new information, there are higher demands on standards of care – unfortunately leading to higher areas of risk, and subsequently, higher malpractice claims. It is crucial that all parties involved in the obstetric malpractice continuum – medical professionals, risk managers, insurance professionals, plaintiff and defense attorneys – stay current on these latest developments as well as claims impacting this area of practice.

During this one of a kind event, our unparalleled faculty of claims specialists, risk managers, medical experts – as well as an outstanding array of plaintiff and defense attorneys – will share their insights and provide practical guidance for addressing some of the most complex medical and litigation challenges of today, as well as the impact of COVID-19.

■ Highlights for this year, include sessions on:

- Exploring Obstetrical Catastrophes: Placental Abruption, Uterine Rupture and Breech Presentations
- An Anatomy of a Modern Malpractice Trial Considering Rising Verdicts
- Assessing Claims Against L&D Nurses and Midwives
- Addressing Risk Associated with Oxytocin and Cytotec in Labor Induction and Augmentation
- Damages Expert Selection and Preparation
- A Case Study of Zubida Byrom, et al vs John Hopkins Bayview Medical Center Inc.
