34th Annual Symposium

Cardiology

FOR THE PRACTITIONER

Yosemite National Park will be the site for the 34th Annual Course “Cardiology for the Practitioner.” This three-day symposium is an intensive course designed for internists, primary care physicians, family practitioners, cardiologists, and other health care providers who encounter patients with various heart diseases. Recent advances in pathophysiology, therapeutic considerations, and clinical relevance of common cardiovascular disorders will be presented. Emphasis will be placed on the recent practice guidelines and updates for common cardiovascular conditions. The entire course will focus on frequently encountered clinical problems in cardiac patients by the practicing physicians.

There will be state-of-the-art and comprehensive reviews on coronary risk factors, hypertension, hyperlipidemia, coronary artery disease, acute and chronic ischemic syndromes, sudden cardiac death, syncope, atrial fibrillation, adult congenital heart disorders, valvular heart disease. Special focus will be placed on review of traditional and emerging cardiac risk factors highlighting primary and secondary prevention strategies. In addition, we will discuss updates and critical review of newer diagnostic imaging modalities, use of newer therapeutic strategies based on recent clinical trials, and emerging interventional techniques for CVD.

Lastly, topics will be discussed pertaining to reviews on recent clinical trials and practice guidelines in the management of hypertension, dyslipidemia, stable and unstable angina, atrial fibrillation, valvular heart disease, and sudden cardiac death.

This year’s program will be devoted to topics of clinical relevance in practice and will include special emphasis on cost-effective, guidelines-based treatment of most common cardiac conditions in clinical practice. The topics and speakers will pay special attention to the clinical problems frequently encountered by the clinician in his/her practice. Special features of the program will include most recent guidelines, and workshops on ECG interpretation and cardiac auscultation. Throughout this course, efforts will be made to provide the clinician with practical knowledge required for the management of cardiac patients utilizing a selection of evidence-based, recommended cost-effective therapies in the current climate of cost containment in health care.

Upon completion of this course, the attendees will be better able to:

- Incorporate the most reasonable cost-effective diagnostic evaluation of common cardiovascular disorders;
- Determine the appropriate goals as recommended by the guidelines to be achieved in the care of their cardiac patients;
- Recognize the latest advances in the screening and management of patients with hypertension, hyperlipidemia, acute and chronic coronary syndromes, valvular heart diseases, atrial fibrillation, and syncope;
- Define the pathophysiology, triggers & preventive strategies for sudden cardiac death;
- Recognize the development of various diagnostic and therapeutic modalities in CVD;
- Analyze the screening, work up and management of patients with Acute and Chronic coronary syndromes;
- Evaluate the uses and limitations of various cardiac imaging modalities in cardiac patients;
- Incorporate the role of newer and emerging lipids and lipid lowering drugs in clinical practice;
- Understand the role of various interventions to prevent heart disease in the population;
- Recognize the indications, limitations, and complications of newer vs. old anticoagulants and antithrombotic in CVD;
- Determine the role of emerging percutaneous approaches for valvular heart conditions;
- Identify the evaluation & management of adult congenital heart diseases;
- Evaluate and manage patients with acute and chronic atrial fibrillation;
- Incorporate the role of newer drugs vs. devices for prevention of sudden cardiac death;
- Evaluation and management of patients with Pacemakers;
- Identify various cardiac sounds, murmurs and related disorders;
- Interpret electrocardiography to identify common EKG abnormalities;
- Understand the role and benefits of cardiac rehabilitation in practice;
- Apply newly acquired knowledge of guidelines-based evaluation and management of cardiac patients.

ACCREDITATION

The University of California, San Francisco School of Medicine (UCSF) is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Physicians: UCSF designates this live activity for a maximum of 17.50 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

This CME activity meets the requirements under California Assembly Bill 1195, continuing education and cultural linguistic competency.

Nurses: For the purpose of recertification, the American Nurses Credentialing Center accepts AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™ issued by organizations accredited by the ACCME.

Maintenance of Certification: Successful completion of this CME activity, which includes participation in the evaluation component, enables the participant to earn up to 17.50 MOC points in the American Board of Internal Medicine's (ABIM) Maintenance of Certification (MOC) program. Participants will earn MOC points equivalent to the amount of CME credits claimed for the activity. It is the CME activity provider's responsibility to submit participant completion information to ACCME for the purpose of granting ABIM MOC credit.
