THE ART and SCIENCE of Managing the NEW Melanoma Landscape

A Case-Based Multidisciplinary Approach

September 16-17, 2016

Houston Marriott Medical Center- Houston, Texas

There has been rapid and exciting progress in the development of targeted, immune, and intralesional therapies for melanoma. We now have many therapeutic options that did not exist only a few years ago. Thus, it can be challenging to determine which new therapy is the best to use in a heterogeneous population of patients. This conference will discuss the optimal treatment approaches for different presentations of early and advanced melanoma to facilitate the optimization and personalization of patient management for this disease.

Accreditation/ Credit Designation

The University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center designates this live activity for a maximum of 9.50 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
