Dear Friends and Colleagues,

This year's meeting will be held at the New Orleans Marriott in the historic French Quarter in New Orleans, Louisiana – the Crescent City. Interactive workshops and round-table luncheons will build upon the experiences and successes of previous years to cover a wide array of topics. Beginner and advanced sessions are directed toward the needs of multidisciplinary adult learners at various career stages. Sponsored workshops will address challenging medical and surgical aspects of gynecologic care with the addition of new hands-on training tools for learners.

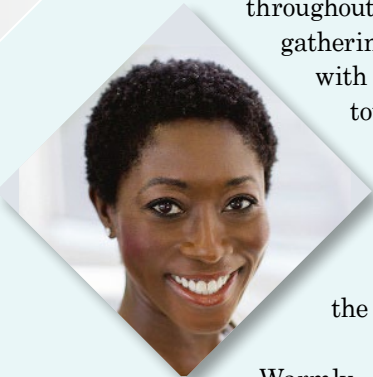

A new abstract submission platform has allowed another record year of submissions with an impressive showcase of peer-reviewed research through platform presentations and awards and poster sessions with authors.

The mentoring program was well received during its inaugural year and has been continued for 2019. Mentees will have the opportunity to meet with senior mentors and NASPAG leaders with whom they have established relationships over the past year. The mentoring workshop will be preceded by the Research Education Workshop title IRB Pearls and Pitfalls and is open to all conference attendees.

Networking at the ACRM remains a vital part of the program and many opportunities will be available throughout the week through Special Interest Groups, NASPAG Committee meetings and informal gatherings. If travel plans allow, please plan to take advantage of opportunities to explore the city with friends and colleagues the day prior to conference activities through gastro tours, walking city tours and haunted tours.

New Orleans will be bustling with excitement this spring with the French Quarter Festival occurring during the ACRM. Register and book your hotel rooms now for the 33rd NASPAG Annual Clinical Research Meeting.

It has been a pleasure serving as your program chair and I look forward to joining you in the Crescent City for a memorable ACRM experience. Laissez les bons temps rouler!

Warmly,
Leslie Coker Appiah, MD, FACOG

About New Orleans:

No city in North America can compete with New Orleans when it comes to culture, food, historic architecture, joie de vivre and tourism options.

The Crescent City has suffered plagues, wars, imperial regime changes and devastating floods. Yet, it always wakes up with a smile on its face. This may be because its inhabitants step to an easy beat first laid down three centuries ago. Moving at this relaxed pace, visitors are delighted by the French Creole elegance of the Vieux Carre (French Quarter) or the opulence discovered in a streetcar ride through the Garden District and Uptown.

Any time of year find live music, amazing Creole and Cajun cuisine, fresh seafood, farmers markets, shopping, nightlife and more. During Mardi Gras season, the city becomes the world's center. Downtown transforms into an adult playground, while parades in residential areas provide children thrilling entertainment. Each spring, the New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival moves the focus to the charming Gentilly area and the Fair Grounds Race Course. But no matter the time of year, New Orleans' calendar overflows in celebration. (LOUISIANATRAVEL.COM, 2018).
