

Meningitis & Septicaemia

in Children & Adults 2015

Wednesday 4 & Thursday 5 November

1 Wimpole Street, London W1G 0AE

Our tenth conference, once again taking place at the Royal Society of Medicine, will bring together internationally renowned experts from the UK and around the world to address the most important issues of the day.

Consistently attracting over 250 delegates from a range of specialties and international institutions, this conference is a key event in the calendar for many of the world's leading authorities in infectious disease, paediatrics, vaccinology, public health and tropical medicine.

The two days of oral presentations, debates and poster presentations provide a showcase for talent and cutting edge research, as well as an opportunity to network and share opinions.

Topics covered:

- Burden of illness
- Advances in recognition and treatment
- Global topics/meningitis & sepsis in Africa
- Advances from research
- Neonatal meningitis/sepsis
- Pneumococcal prevention
- Meningococcal prevention
