

Join Keystone Symposia
for the 2016 conference on:

Ubiquitin Signaling

March 13–17, 2016

Whistler Conference Centre | Whistler, British Columbia | Canada

Scientific Organizers:

Philip Cohen, Michael Rape and Titia K. Sixma

Joint with the conference on NF- κ B and MAP Kinase Signaling in Inflammation

Many components of the ubiquitin system are involved in controlling cellular processes, and the deregulation of this system underlies many diseases. The meeting will focus on how ubiquitylation controls processes such as autophagy, neurodegenerative diseases, hypertension, the immune system and the activation of NF- κ B. It will include talks on how the ubiquitin system is controlled by protein phosphorylation, the specificity and regulation of deubiquitylases and the structural analysis of E3 ligases and large protein complexes that coordinate ubiquitylation and related events. Additional sessions will feature diseases caused by abnormalities in ubiquitylation and the progress that is being made in targeting the ubiquitin system for the development of improved drugs to treat cancer and other diseases.

Session Topics:

- Regulation of the Ubiquitin System by Deubiquitylases and Phosphorylation
- Role of Ubiquitylation in Control of Autophagy
- Ubiquitination-Dependent Modulation of NF- κ B Signaling I & II (Joint)
- Large Machines
- Ubiquitylation and Human Disease
- Structural Analysis of E3 Ligases and DUBs
- Small Molecules and Therapeutics
- Meeting Wrap-Up: Outcomes and Future Directions

Submitting an abstract is a great way of participating in the conference through poster presentation and possible selection for a short talk.
