Hot Topics in Aged Care Conference - Melbourne 2019

An Essential Update

Need for Program

When new evidence does not underpin nursing practice, harm to the older adult may result. As such, being equipped with the latest evidence can influence the health outcomes of older adults. It is therefore imperative that access to evidence-based, gerontological knowledge is available. This timely conference enables nurses with a formal opportunity to access new knowledge that when translated into practice can ensure the care of older adults is safe and in line with the modern evidence.

Purpose of Program

This conference provides nurses with the most up-to-date education and evidence to enable informed decision-making when caring for an older adult

Learning Outcomes

At the conclusion of this program it is expected that the participants will be able to:

- Incorporate the latest evidence on cognitive impairment when caring for an older adult with the behavioural symptoms of dementia
- Combine best-available evidence with clinical expertise to maximise comprehensive care of older adults
- Formulate nursing care plans that are based on current evidence relating to the prevention of harm
- Improve health wellness outcomes by applying new knowledge about a range of physical and mental health conditions, as well as their treatments, that are common to older adults
