3rd Annual Miami Lung Cancer CONFERENCE®

Stay up-to-date.

Join us for a concise and in-depth one-day update in lung cancer.

The Miami Lung Cancer Conference® returns for its 3rd year! This meeting is intended to provide expert assessment of practice-changing evidence on evolving treatment paradigms for lung cancer treatment. This 1-day intensive and interactive meeting will address immunotherapies and targeted agents, both approved and in development; current and new approaches for chemotherapeutic strategies; treatment for special populations; and a look to the future from the experts.

The conference is led by our co-chairs, Thomas J. Lynch, Jr, MD, and Heather A. Wakelee, MD, leading experts in lung cancer. Participants will learn from engaging presentations delivered by renowned experts in the field, reviewing and discussing realistic and complex scenarios, sharing clinical experiences, evaluating well-established and emerging unmet therapeutic opportunities, solving clinical problems, and clarifying best practices. This year’s offering will again feature the dynamic and interactive Medical Crossfire® discussion panels, allowing for exploration of some of the most challenging topics for which there may exist many potential approaches to care. As a result of this exploration, participants will leave the Miami Lung Cancer Conference® with the knowledge and confidence to apply advanced-care strategies for their patients with the most difficult forms of these tumors.
